"Josh is one on the brightest and creative people I have met in the Web Design Industry. An industry which by its very nature is loaded with talent. He works easily and supportively with his clients and supplements the creative process with his extensive knowledge of current technologies and understands the impact of each element on a company's branding and marketing processes. But I think what we enjoy the most is his high sense of integrity in dealing with our business needs. He will not over promise and then under deliver."
